

CodeTwo Outlook Sync tested Compatible with Windows 7

CodeTwo Outlook Sync, the new product by CodeTwo designed for synchronizing Outlook between two computers, passed the compatibility tests and received the Compatible with Windows 7 logo.

Jelenia Góra, Poland, April 27, 2011 —

CodeTwo announced earlier this month that their newest application, CodeTwo Outlook Sync was tested Compatible with Windows 7. The Polish software vendor has created a new application called CodeTwo Outlook Sync, which fully integrates with Windows 7 to provide smooth data sharing capabilities for users. The program allows users to share Outlook folders between two machines linked in local network.

“Our customers expect us to deliver high quality products as they often use them for their business”, said Michał Bednarz, CodeTwo Managing Director. “By working with Microsoft, we feel confident CodeTwo Outlook Sync will provide users of Microsoft Outlook with enhanced functionality and significant value.”

CodeTwo Outlook Sync is a brand new application which had its premiere in March 2011 and yet the program has proven its high reliability level by passing the Windows 7 compatibility test. Above all, the Logo confirms that CodeTwo Outlook Sync is highly reliable and easy to install on machines running Windows 7.

CodeTwo Outlook Sync is available in two versions: free and licensed. The free version allows users to synchronize default Outlook calendar and contacts folders between two machines, whereas switching to a paid version gives the possibility to synchronize all Outlook folders between two PC's in real time. The program is equipped with a modern user interface and was created by a group of CodeTwo programmers that are vastly experienced in creating top-rated synchronization applications for Outlook and Exchange platforms. Users from all over the world are already familiar with the award winning product, CodeTwo Public Folders, designed for sharing Outlook data between multiple computers, which was created by the same development team.

CodeTwo Outlook Sync is available in both free and paid versions on www.codetwo.com.
