CodeTwo, a Polish software company delivering solutions based on Microsoft Outlook and Exchange Server platforms, announced the premiere of its new freeware earlier this week. CodeTwo Outlook AutoConfig is a smart free tool which automatically configures email accounts in Microsoft Outlook, Outlook Express, Windows Mail and Windows Live Mail. This smart application by CodeTwo boils down the entire process just to providing an email address.

CodeTwo Outlook AutoConfig lets you quickly configure popular mail clients accounts by providing only basic information like email address and password. Users of Microsoft Outlook, Windows Live Mail and Outlook Express no longer have to know any technical details about POP3 and SMTP email accounts since the application processes the configuration automatically. This smart tool is truly a time-saver to people using several email accounts with different setups, especially when switching to new operating systems, moving to new PC's or simply wanting to save time.

- We have been using this tool in our company and we love it so much that we decided to share it with other users. - says Michal Bednarz, owner and Managing Director of CodeTwo - Since we do a lot of applications for Outlook, we also use them in our everyday work. Now we would like others to benefit from those solutions too.

CodeTwo Outlook AutoConfig uses external Internet database that is being regularly updated. It means that the value of this program will become even higher in a short period of time, since its capabilities are being instantly enriched with new configuration models.
