New CodeTwo Program for MS Outlook Data Synchronization Has Been Released

The long waited application, CodeTwo Outlook Sync was released last month by CodeTwo. The program is dedicated to all users searching for an easy solution to sync Outlook files with another machine. What is more, all users can also enjoy a free, time-unlimited version of the program that enables them to sync default MS Outlook calendar and contacts folders.

Jelenia Gora, Poland, April 5, 2011—

- CodeTwo Outlook Sync has been designed to live up to requirements of thousands of users worldwide who need a simple, logical and ridiculously easy-to-use sharing tool for Microsoft Outlook.- says Szymon Szczesniak, the Marketing Manager of CodeTwo.

When creating the new program, CodeTwo programmers took into account typical situations in which sharing Outlook files between two computers is most likely desired. Therefore, CodeTwo Outlook Sync is designed both for the office environment, where it can be used to sync Outlook with co-worker, secretary or supervisor, as well as at home, e.g. to help one organize personal tasks and documents kept on two PCs. The program's role is to facilitate users' work on a mutual project by giving them a quick access to all shared Outlook items, such as contacts, emails, calendar and journal entries or pending tasks that now can be updated in real-time.

During the installation and configuration process, user can choose the machine that will be synced with MS Outlook folders. The sort of synchronized data is also easily defined by selecting appropriate files from a list of Outlook elements. The synchronization process can be run automatically every time the program is launched, or it can be activated manually, by pressing the Synchronization button. CodeTwo programmers made an effort to make this application very easy to use, so all the main program's settings can be implemented within just a few clicks.

This is not the first program from CodeTwo that is meant to smoothly share data to aid group work. CodeTwo Public Folders is a well-known business application, designed to share PST files between multiple computers, whereas CodeTwo Exchange Sync allows users to synchronize selected folders of MS Exchange Server.

Along with the release of CodeTwo Outlook Sync, the company's products offer was enriched with a user-friendly tool that is perfect both for two people using MS Outlook to run their common projects as well as for a single person who does not limit oneself just to one computer when managing daily tasks in Outlook.
